How They Talked Before Election

In view of the desperate attempts of the Democracy to appear cheerful under the most significant drubbing they have ever received in this state it is interesting to note some of the comments in Democratic papers prior to the election. The Chicago News, a red hot Cleveland organ said:

"Four years ago the Democrats made no fight in Maine. This year they have in Mr. Putnam an exceptionally able candidate for Governor and they are working hard for him. The state is full of campaign orators of both parties in addition to Mr. Blaine. While the Democrats probably do not expect to carry the state they have [illegible] to polling down the Republican majority. [illegible] that of 1884. For comparison [illegible] will not [illegible] their credit."

The Philadelphia Times, another Democratic prophet said last week:

"On Monday next Maine will vote and her Republican majority will fall off some [illegible] or about what Vermont has polled. [illegible] The Republicans of Maine will fairly hold their own on Monday next when they will fall off some 5,000 from Blaine's majority of four years ago."

The same paper had also said a few days earlier that a Republican majority of 15,000 this year would be a party victory equal to the 20,000 given four years ago under Mr. Blaine's personal command. This was the kind of talk made by the Democratic press when it was confidently expected that a combination of boodle with Cleveland reform would result in cutting down the Republican majority to a low figure. When the Times fixed upon 15,000 as the limit, it thought it had placed the figures sufficiently high to make its prediction entirely safe. The News was more sanguine and said that anything short of a reduction of the Republican majority in 1884 would not redound to the credit of the Democracy. This only goes to show how the Democratic press would have howled had this reduction been forthcoming. They fully expected a different result from that sent out Monday night but now that the Republicans have buried the free trade party under a majority ranging from 10,000 to 20,000 the same papers declare that it was just what they had anticipated all along. Unfortunately for them, however they cannot wipe out these comments which give them dead away. It was a glorious victory, and is but the forerunner of what is in store for the free trade party in November.

They Have Heard from Maine.

Tuesday was a day of great activity at the headquarters of the Republican National Committee. The splendid victory in Maine was the general topic of conversation, and comment upon it was of an exceedingly bright and cheering nature. Ex-Congressman Horr, of Michigan, who has just returned from a speaking tour in Maine, said:

"The canvass was a thorough one on each side. The Democrats put forth their best efforts, and did not let the State go by default, as they did in 1884. They had large numbers of speakers, numerous meetings, spent a great deal of money for literature, and, in fact, left no stone unturned in their efforts to bring down the Republican majority to a very small figure. The Republicans, under Mr. Manley's directions, made a vigorous and thorough campaign. The question discussed by every speaker and every newspaper was the tariff. That was the point at issue. We put the question to the people frankly, 'Do you want free trade or protection?' and their splendid majority was thoroughly aroused on the tariff issue, and determined to announce her position in no uncertain way."

Hon. J. P. Dolliver, a brilliant young Iowa orator, said:

"As Maine goes, so goes the Union. She has gone for protection. She will go for Harrison and Morton, and so will every Northern State."

Hon. J. R. G. Pitkin said:

"I made a number of speeches in Maine, and before I had been in the State long, was thoroughly convinced of the fact that the people realized the importance of the issue which they are to be called on to settle at the ballot-box this year. The result is significant and I think it indicates the drift of sentiment throughout the country."

Ex-Governor Cheney, of New Hampshire, said:

"Maine has gone forward splendidly in the line indicated by Oregon and Vermont, and the indications are that the rest of the Northern States will follow her."

Colonel J. S. Clarkson, vice-chairman of the National Committee, has gone to Boston with his son, who is at school near by, for a few days' recreation. He has been confined to his room by a sprained foot for several weeks, and felt the need of some respite from his severe labors. Before going Mr. Clarkson expressed his hearty satisfaction with the news from Maine, and said that the majority was larger than he had anticipated it would be.

General C. H. T. Collis, found much comfort in the Maine returns. "It is excellent news, excellent," he remarked. "Few persons had an idea of how hard the fight was up in Maine, and the result is in many respects remarkable. I don't want to talk much about it, for we must keep up our hard work to extend the success of the first engagements with the enemy."

Indiana Republicans have been quietly rejoicing over the news from the Maine election, which is cheering to them not only because it is believed to be the beginning of a political tidal wave that will sweep over the entire country, but also because it is believed that it will have a good effect upon the doubtful voters of the State.

A Crusade of Free Trade

The following despatch was cut from the St. John Globe Wednesday:

LONDON, Sept. 11.

The Chronicle says: "The exclusion of the fisheries question from the letter of acceptance of President Cleveland is strong testimony as to the purely factious character of the rejection of the treaty. It is utterly impossible to doubt that the reelection of President Cleveland would mean the eventual revival and ratification of the treaty. It is immaterial to discuss what President Cleveland's crusade should be called. He may give it any name he likes as long as he knows it is in fact a crusade of free trade."

Possibly our contemporary will declare this a forgery as it did some other troublesome paragraphs quoted from the British press. President Cleveland's buncombe message is correctly interpreted in England as a mere dodge to catch votes. He is at heart for the fishery surrender policy just as he is for the British free trade policy and that is why his candidacy is so highly indorsed in England.

Telegrams to Gen. Harrison.

An Indianapolis despatch says: The city has been full of strangers to-day, going to Columbus, and most of them called upon the General. He expressed himself as highly pleased with the result of the election in Maine. Late this evening he received the following despatches:

"SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11.

"General Benjamin Harrison: Read the writing on the wall—Oregon, Vermont, Maine. Congratulations.

M. M. ESTEE."

"BANGOR, Sept. 11.

"General Benjamin Harrison: In vindication of my pledge at Chicago the white plume of Maine has come splendidly to the front of the battle with the largest Republican majority since the 80's. We repeat the greeting of 1840 to the next President of the United States.

CHARLES A. BOUTELLE."

A True Friend to Labor.

Judge Buchanan, member of Congress from Trenton said concerning Charles Litchman, the recently resigned General Secretary of the Knights of Labor:

He is very much misjudged in his motives. It was my privilege to be associated with Mr. Litchman during the Congressional investigation of the Southwest strike. He proved himself a very efficient representative of the workingmen, and by his good business methods secured us much information and materially assisted the investigation. For this alone the working men are under obligation to him. I was with him much and his whole conversation and thought seemed to be how he could materially benefit the condition of the workingmen. He has not the elements of the demagogue about him. He loves the cause, he has espoused. I firmly believe that Mr. Litchman is solemnly convinced that in presenting the protective policy of the Republican party he is doing what his intelligence and observations lead him to believe is the best for the workingmen of this country."

As to the Third Party vote, Maine reinforces the lesson already taught by Oregon and Vermont, viz: that in a great and critical struggle like the present man cannot be beguiled into throwing away their votes. Sincere and sensible temperance men perceive now more clearly than ever that the only hope of effective dealing with the liquor problem lies in the Republican party.

Grover Cleveland—What's the matter with Maine?

Uncle Sam—O she's all right.

General Harrison's letter of acceptance expresses the man. It is the utterance of a frank, thoughtful, far-seeing, self-respecting American, with a clean conscience, a clear head and a clear record.

TRUE WAY.

"As far as human wisdom and judgment can devise the only true way of conducting life insurance is to require of the insured at the beginning of the year such a payment of money as the experience of the past has shown to be sufficient to cover all possible expenses and at the end of the year to return to each policy holder the surplus that has been accumulated in excess of the careful management of the Company." This is exactly what the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company is doing. It has its two fixed rates and at the end of each year makes a return of surplus distribution in cash, upon every policy. Reserve at 4 per cent.

Wilson, following the line as near as may be of Margin street to the residence of Wm. Thompson at the Basin or from the junction of Myrtle and Pine streets to Margin street, thence along the line of Margin street to Island Avenue at the Basin, dated the 7th day of April A. D. 1887, on which petition due notice was given, did on the 12th day of Nov., A. D. 1887, lay out a town way or ways in said Orono in form as follows:

1st. Starting at a stake on the easterly line of Main street at a point about fifteen feet south of the western side walk bounding the house of Jerusha Homestead, running south 40° 30' east 216 feet to a stake near the easterly line of said Perkins lot, across the land of H. H. Perkins thence deflecting to the right 90° 30' go 170 feet to a stake near the house occupied by George Morrill across the land of Joseph Porter.

2d. Starting at a stake in the easterly line of Main street about 10 feet south of the line of James Webster's lot, running south 42° 15' east 118 feet to a stake, thence deflecting to the left 90° go 295 feet to a stake, thence deflecting to the left 45° go 118 feet to a stake near the end of the street laid first across the land of Joseph Porter.

The above line to be the middle of the highway and said highway to be two rods wide.

And we award to said H. H. Perkins one hundred (100) dollars, to said Joseph Porter forty (40) dollars for their damages on way first laid out. And to said J. M. Chase one hundred and twenty five (125) dollars, and said Joseph Porter forty (40) dollars for their damages on way last laid out, to be paid by the said town before the road is opened. Such laying out with town limits and measurements has been filed with the Town Clerk on the 20th day of March A. D. 1888, and thereafter towards a return of these proceedings containing the bounds and admeasurements of such way and the damages allowed to such persons for land taken was duly made and filed with the Town Clerk of said Orono. And thereafter wards, to wit, on the 19th day of March A. D. 1888 at a meeting of the inhabitants of said Orono, legally called by a warrant containing a proper article for the purpose, said way was accepted by vote of said meeting in words as follows: "Voted to accept the town way as laid out and marked in the report, as appears by the report thereof."

That thereafterwards at a special meeting of said town of Orono, held on the 7th day of August, A. D. 1888 which said meeting was called upon the petition of your respondents upon a warrant containing the following articles to wit:

1st—To choose a Moderator to preside at said meeting.

2d—To see if the Town will vote to abandon the street or way laid out by the Selectmen, November 12th, 1887 and accepted by the Town March 19th 1888.

3rd—To see if the Town will vote to accept the new street or way laid by the Selectmen Nov. 12th 1887 said articles being before said meeting for action thereon, it was voted as follows, to wit:

"Not to abandon the street or way laid out by the Selectmen Nov. 12th, 1887, and accepted by the Town Mar. 19, 1888.

"Voted to pass over Article 3 as by the record thereof appears."

Wherefore your petitioner, feeling himself aggrieved by the act of said Town in refusing to abandon said street or way as located, over his land, claims an appeal from the doings of said town to your Honorable Body, and prays that you will take the same into the premises as in such cases is by law provided.

And as in duty bound will ever pray.

Orono, Sept. 10th, A. D. 1888.

(Signed) J. M. CHASE.
